Dear recruiting team

I am writing to you with enthusiasm and great interest in being part of your development team as a web developer.

For the last four years, I have been passionately dedicated to web application development, gaining valuable experience in different challenging projects.

For the last two years, I have worked as a freelance web developer, which has allowed me to acquire self-taught skills, manage projects independently, and learn to deal with the challenges that arise in web development efficiently and effectively.

This experience has given me a great ability to work autonomously, meet tight deadlines and overcome technical obstacles.

Recently, I have completed my training in the Higher FP of Web Application Development (DAW). Recognizing the importance of having a solid educational foundation, I decided to invest time and effort in this program to consolidate my knowledge and skills in web application development.

Through the FP, I have expanded my understanding of fundamental concepts, honed my programming language skills, and gained a deeper perspective on web application architecture and design.

In addition to my experience and training, I have strong technical skills in different web technologies, such as HTML, CSS, JavaScript, and frameworks like React.js. I also have experience using relational databases and version control tools, as well as implementing agile development practices to ensure high-quality product delivery.

My passion for technology and web development drives me to stay up to date on the latest trends and developments in the industry. I am always willing to learn new technologies and methodologies to improve my performance and add value to any project in which I am involved. I believe that my unique combination of self-taught experience, recent training, and passion for web development makes me an ideal candidate to contribute to the success of your company.

You can access my resume through the web and download it so that you can review my experience and achievements in detail. I am at your disposal for any additional information you deem necessary. I thank you in advance for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,
Marina Barcelo Gomez
